RIYADH, Saudi Arabia, Jan. 21, 2026 /PRNewswire/ â?? From the 22nd to 23rd of January, the Saudi Music Commission, one of 11 sector specific commissions under the Ministry of Culture, will bring the tenth edition of the â??Marvels of Saudi Orchestraâ?• to the iconic cultural destination of AIUla, featuring 107 Saudi musicians and performers spotlighting Saudi cultural heritage.

The â??Marvels of Saudi Orchestraâ?• has previously toured major cities, including Paris, Mexico City, New York, London, Tokyo, and Sydney, bringing Saudi Arabiaâ??s musical heritage to stages around the world through unique and collaborative shows in each country.

The upcoming concert by the Saudi National Orchestra and Choir will showcase the Kingdomâ??s artistic diversity through traditional Saudi melodies with a modern twist. The captivating orchestra performances will feature a wide range of musical instruments and performing arts from regions across Saudi Arabia.

Paul Pacifico, the CEO of the Saudi Music Commission, commented: â??Music is a powerful expression of cultural identity and a universal language that connects audiences. Through the â??Marvels of Saudi Orchestraâ?? concert we are sharing and celebrating the diversity of Saudi musical heritage with audiences, combining tradition with modernity, through performance at a remarkable venue in AIUla.â?•

The Maraya Concert Hall, located in Wadi Ashar, AIUla, stands as a cultural landmark with a mirrored façade of more than 9,700 glass panels that allows it to blend into its natural surroundings. The Hall has previously hosted international musical concerts and cultural performances featuring leading global and Arab artists, including Alicia Keys, Andrea Bocelli, and Mohammed Abdu.

The â??Marvels of Saudi Orchestraâ?• showcases the Kingdomâ??s commitment to celebrating cultural and musical heritage.
