SURESNES, France, March 18, 2026 /PRNewswire/ - Ingenico, a global leader in payment acceptance and services, has collaborated with Visa, a global leader in payments, to enhance and expand value with current and future clients. The solution combines Ingenico's Android-based AXIUM smart POS terminals with the Visa Acceptance Platform, including gateway and risk management services.

By using Visa's extensive experience in e-commerce, this collaboration can grow Ingenico's innovative payment options, seamless online transactions, and ability to deliver scalable omnichannel solutions designed to meet clients' diverse needs. It will incorporate the in-store expertise of Ingenico's AXIUM Android platform, which offers robust functionality and user-friendly interfaces.

The main component of the collaboration is a platform that provides technical pre-certification with the Visa Acceptance Platform that will significantly reduce the time to market while still meeting multiple industry and payment requirements. It will cover use cases in enterprise retail, small/medium business, and restaurant, as well as enablement of third parties-ISVs.

Through this collaboration, Ingenico and Visa will continue to revolutionize payment solutions. The alliance will simplify the process of securely authorizing in-store payments and help merchants and partners scale their businesses faster by reducing the complexity and cost of certifications and platform development.
