LONDON, July 4, 2026 /PRNewswire/ â?? New research* commissioned by Velo highlights the lengths fans go to stay connected to the sports and teams they love, reinforcing the brandâ??s belief that fandom is an important form of self-expression.

Building on this insight, Velo x McLaren Mastercard Formula 1Â® Team is relaunching Live Your Fandom for a second year â?? a platform designed to celebrate fansâ?? individuality and inspire them to express their passion in original ways.

As part of the campaign, Velo recently gave fans a chance to engage with the team through a special fan experience in London ahead of the British Grand Prix.

The campaign will continue later this summer with the launch of a global fan competition on @velo.global, inviting fans to share their most original McLaren-inspired fan dreams for the opportunity to unlock an unforgettable experience with the team.

In a sport where access to live races can be limited, these experiences are vital in bringing fans closer to the McLaren team. Veloâ??s research study found that almost half (49%) of sports fans have missed an event they were desperate to attend. This is despite a similar number (45%) saying that sport plays a central role in their lives.

With Live Your Fandom, Velo and McLaren are continuing to champion the fans who help make motorsport what it is â?? encouraging them to celebrate their passion, individuality and creativity like never before.
