BERLIN, Sept. 4, 2026 /PRNewswire/ - At IFA 2026, the premier global trade show for consumer electronics, AliExpress is hosting an elite lineup of global technology innovators to present a future-ready ecosystem, ranging from humanoid robots to spatial AI eyewear, demonstrating why it has become the go-to destination for cutting-edge consumer tech.

From Global Distribution to Global Debut

"In 2026, European consumers are looking for more than just a bargain—they want premium technology that seamlessly integrates into and improves their daily lives," said Neo Yang, AliExpress Brand+ Lead. "From intelligent home devices to humanoid robots, we are connecting everyday tech enthusiasts directly with global innovators who bring real-world technological breakthroughs straight to their doorsteps without the luxury markup."

This strategic vision is already driving rapid momentum with the Brand+ initiative successfully onboarding over 1,500 leading brands and achieving a nearly 40% brand-led GMV penetration rate during the recent mid-year mega sale, proving that European consumers are actively embracing high-quality, innovative tech.

Spotlight on IFA: A Showcase of Tech Pioneers

AliExpress Brand+ has curated a selection of industry-leading products that represent the pinnacle of innovation at IFA 2026:

Anycubic showcases the Kobra X Combo to make multi-color 3D printing accessible for creators worldwide.

Engwe redefines personal mobility through versatile, high-performance electric bicycles engineered for both urban commuting and off-road adventures.

ETENWOLF ensures roadside safety and preparedness with professional-grade portable power solutions and tire inflators designed for reliability.

EagleSight Dynamics makes its debut at the IFA AliExpress booth, showcasing the ESD Eagle X bionic ornithopter as part of the platform's exclusive AI hardware matrix.

GMKtec advances compact computing with its new generation Agentic-PC powered by AMD processors to deliver proactive intelligence on the desktop.

iLife leverages self-owned manufacturing capabilities to deliver high-value, autonomous floor cleaning robots directly to consumers.

Lubluelu enhances home security and automation with smart robotic solutions that integrate seamlessly into modern living environments.

MagicLab Robotics presents its scenario-driven physical AI-native platform, having recently signed an exclusive strategic partnership with AliExpress Brand+ to enrich the platform's AI hardware lineup.

Qwen shares the stage with AliExpress at IFA to present the latest advances in AI hardware, featuring Qwen Glasses and clip-on AI Earbuds that integrate seamlessly with Alibaba's ecosystem of digital services.

Seauto dedicates itself to the R&D of intelligent cordless pool cleaning robots powered by proprietary in-house technologies like BLDC motors and acoustic sensors.

Deepening Local Commitment for a Frictionless Experience

In a market defined by high expectations, true value goes beyond pricing—it relies on deep local investment to ensure peace of mind. AliExpress Brand+ directly addresses this by heavily investing in localized infrastructure, providing comprehensive service guarantees that feature fast delivery and easy returns.

This commitment to local convenience is already a reality: during the recent mid-year mega sale, local warehouse orders in core European markets such as Spain, France, and Poland accounted for over 50% of total sales. By continuously expanding robust European warehousing and local fulfillment networks—with a German official warehouse currently under construction—alongside crystal-clear service commitments, AliExpress strives to deliver a frictionless shopping experience.
